Ouroboros ring tattoo

I have thirteen tatoos. I think they're all pretty cool (and definitely don't qualify as bad-quality). Annie Spratt via Unsplash! once went through a psychic that told me I lived the equivalent of two lives in one. He said that at some point, those lives would be diverse, and I would have to make a decision. I would be faced with a moment of great change, and the way I came down would be a big bear over the rest of my life. He was right. I often look back at this time and think to myself, If only I could go back to that moment when the road first searched, maybe I could write destiny. Despite that run, anxiety thought, I firmly believe that destiny needs no recruitment. The decisions I made were what they needed to make, and everything that happened was done that because at some point before birth, I must have decreed that it needed to happen. I don't necessarily need a tattoo to mark this time of transition – I've given myself enough sugar on these years long to prove it. But now I am wise and knowledgeable that only comes to in later and survival, and for the rest of my life, I will have the strength of a persevering person. If you're considering getting a tattoo to mark your personal evolution, read on.
